

GROWN BY FARMERS FOR FARMERS

Eight farmers formed the Family Farmers Seed Cooperative (FFSC) in 2008 and we now have over a dozen growers. We're a farmer-owned cooperative that produces high-quality, open-pollinated, public domain, non-GMO, Certified Organic seed for farmers and other wholesale markets. FFSC was born from the urgent need to protect seed sovereignty and to ensure food security so we may live in a healthy and just society.

Co-op members are skilled, seasoned, organic crop and seed producers who specialize in diverse crops, and are located in several distinct bioregions. This diversity strengthens our ability to offer crops adaptive to many soils & climates.

SEED IMPROVEMENT & DEVELOPMENT

We conduct field trials across multiple regions to identify outstanding varieties and determine their environmental adaptability and suitability for organic production. FFSC growers make ongoing selections for flavor, vigor, disease resistance and other important attributes to keep developing better cultivars. We're collaborating with the Organic Seed Alliance (OSA) to learn seed improvement skills and breed new varieties.

FFSC's family farmers are all experienced, dedicated, hard working certified organic producers who share a passion for the almost lost arts of seed growing and seed saving. We're willing to take extra care to ensure that our seed is of the very best quality and produced sustainably in all ways. In this age when corporate dominance of the seed industry has reduced the availability of open-pollinated seeds, we're determined to provide public domain seed that farmers are free to grow out and select for their own bioregions. We respect this time-honored tradition as the right and responsibility of all who work the land. Please join us in seeding a more sustainable future!

QUALITY ASSURANCE

FFSC takes great care to ensure quality in each step, from variety trials and production to cleaning, storage, packing and shipping. We choose our seed and garlic from the best farmer-selected, proven varieties, maintain superior traits through a rigorous stock seed program and grow out every variety the season after it's produced to validate its genetic purity and plant characteristics. This results in vigorous, true-to-type varieties guaranteed to produce high-performing, marketable crops.
